(Dolerite) Rare crystalline dolomite.
Dolomite crystals are mainly tabular in shape, are zoned with variation in zones observed. Frequently impurities concentrated in the xx nucleus. Size of xx is 1-12 mm.
Only short striae is present to indicate rare occurrence of a gastropod, ( ). Algal and few other indistinguishable short structures.

Several veins originally of oolitic calcite were replaced by dolomite, which indicate dolomitization postdating lithification.